ABOUT... THE CONFERENCE

The conference will provide an opportunity for teachers of the many languages in Aotearoa New Zealand, in particular community languages and ESOL, to interact, socialise and explore new knowledge and skills.

The conference will take place over two days and include a variety of keynote addresses, interactive sessions and social elements. Over 300 delegates from a wide range of backgrounds in language teaching and learning – in families, communities, schools, workplaces and tertiary institutions – are expected to attend.

ABOUT... THE DELEGATES

The CLESOL delegates have the opportunity to network and interact, co-operate across sectors, as well as identify and pursue common goals.

In addition, the conference allows for a diverse range of delegates to present and publish research to the wider language learning and teaching community.

CLESOL also affirms the maintenance of te reo Māori under the Treaty of Waitangi.

The delegates will be teachers and leaders who support learners to build their community languages, te reo Māori and English as an additional language. Leaders and teachers will come from:

- + Community language groups
- + Tertiary language and applied linguistics programmes
- + Programmes at private training establishments (PTEs)
- + Early childhood, primary and secondary contexts
- + Government and regional agencies

The leaders and teachers support students including those from refugee and migrant backgrounds, and international students.

THE VENUE

CLESOL 2023 will be held at Rutherford House, Victoria University of Wellington, close to the CBD, Parliament, railway station and many cafes and accommodation options.
